TABLE OF CONTENTS

“It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of foolishness, it was the epoch of belief, it was the epoch of incredulity, it was the season of Light, it was the season of Darkness, it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair, we had everything before us, we had nothing before us . . .”

DEDICATION

Dr. William P. Hytche

A mathematician, an instructor, a most dynamic friend.

It is nothing to say that one has just lived. However, it is more to say that one has lived to help his fellow man. It is even more to say that one has loved in his living.

Dr. William P. Hytche, to whom we make this dedication, is a man who has lived for others. He has lived to instruct others so that they might reap the fruits of this vast society.

To you, Dr. William P. Hytche—a man of keen vision and tenacity—a most thunderous salute.

Dr. Hytche—mediator among students, faculty, and administration; Dr. Hytche—promotor of better student relations; Dr. Hytche—friend to the student. Our illustrious “Dean of Students” is all of these.

But to a small contingent of people at M.S.C., Dr. Hytche is more than just an excellent Coordinator of Student Affairs. Dr. Hytche, to the mathematics majors, is a lighthouse in the turbulent sea of mathematics. Although his major responsibility as “Dean of Students” keeps him pretty busy, Dr. Hytche still manages to devote some of his time to the Natural Sciences Department in the capacity of an excellent mathematics instructor. Students of mathematics thank you for sharing with them your superior knowledge of this area.

We the student body of Maryland State College salute you and sincerely dedicate to you the “1969 Hawk.”

Dr. William P. Hytche, whose personality displays the qualities of confidence, scholasticism, vigor, tenacity, and a fine sense of humor, is first a devoted family man. He does not, however, limit his interest to the confines of home and family. One who has also given liberally of his time and talent to working with civic, charitable, religious and other organizations has most certainly contributed to the intellectual climate of home, school, and community.

On him and on his high endeavoru
The light of praise shall shine forever.

Governor Mandel was born April 19, 1920, in Baltimore. He attended Pimlico Elementary School, Garrison Junior High School, and graduated from City College in 1937. He went to the University of Maryland and then to the University's Law School, receiving his LL.B. in 1942.

Marvin Mandel's political career began in 1950 when he served as a Justice of the Peace in Baltimore City. He was also a member of the Governor's Commission on the Municipal Court for Baltimore City. Governor Mandel's leadership in the General Assembly was often described as "quiet and cautious." Although he exercised firm control of the House, he was always open to all sides of an argument and was always willing to help fellow legislators with their problems.

BOARD OF REGENTS

DR. JOHN TAYLOR WILLIAMS
PRESIDENT

The "sparkplug" of our institution in a most pensive mood.

Omega Man of the Year, 1968

During Commencement 1968 with Mr. & Mrs. Jackie Robinson

With plans for future expansion.

President John Taylor Williams has rounded out his twenty-first year at Maryland State College. This year finds him yet resolving, building, and responding to the years of the Sixties and the Seventies. To be certain that the future of MSC is secure, he is still making long-range plans. His voice is not with that of Spengler, Ortega, Toynbee—that time is running out for the West.

"A fully qualified, stimulating seat of learning . . . a new science building . . . preliminary plans have been completed and funds requested for a million-dollar auditorium . . . a $300,000 swimming pool. Landscaping . . . a large new parking and automobile circle will be built in front of the Administration Building, closing the road which is presently in use. . . ."

"A new name—

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND,

Princess Anne Campus . . ."

QUOTED are only a few among the alternative goals which have priority with the Administration. The President muses with another President, Abraham Lincoln, with reference to plans, new and old crises in higher education:

"The dogmas of the quiet past are inadequate to the stormy present. The occasion is piled high with difficulty, and we must rise with the occasion."

John Taylor Williams continues to rise with the occasion, as he has done so brilliantly in the past. Educated in the tradition of the power of ideas—as are all true scholars—for twenty-one years he has met the occasions occurring in the College's continuing struggle for truth.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT

Dr. William A. Lynk

DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

Dr. Howard E. Wright

I am pleased to extend greetings to the class of 1969.

You are the most remarkable group of students I have known. You are alert to the problems facing students everywhere. You have very aggressively but intelligently expressed your feelings by conferences, petitions, demands, and even demonstrations.

You should continue to be militant as you enter the non-academic world. Protest, but continue to have worthy goals and a program. In this way you will make a positive contribution in rectifying the ills of racism, impoverishment, injustice and war. You will contribute thus to a worthy life for yourself and to improvement in social betterment for your fellowman.

INTRODUCTION TO ACADEMICS

A NEW LIBRARY, A NEW "HUB" OF LEARNING

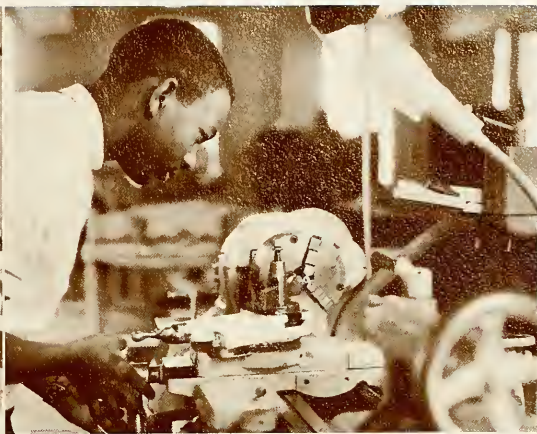

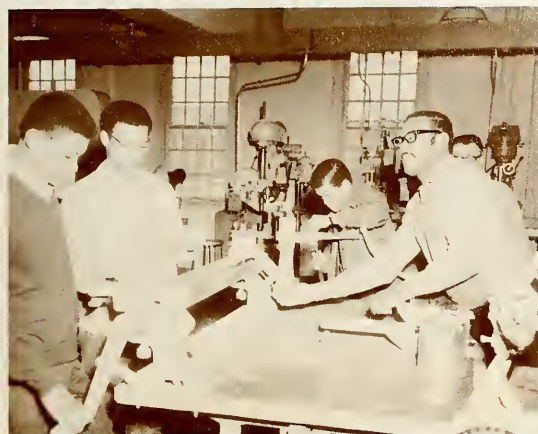

Some Facts About Your New Library

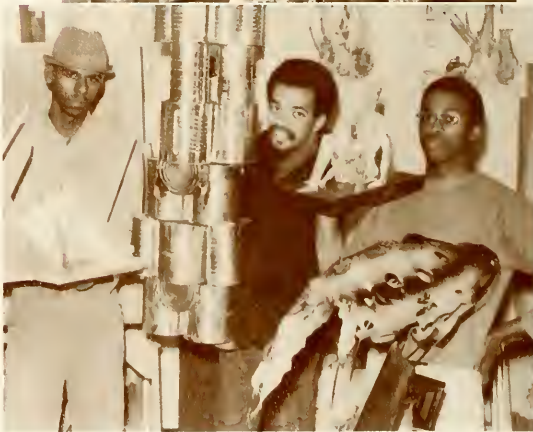

The cost of building the new Maryland State College Library including furnishings was $800,000.00. The building was constructed to house 105,000 volumes, and will seat 350 students. It has 42,325 square feet of floor space and is completely air conditioned. It has a lecture room to seat 280 people, a micro-media room, conference room, staff lounge, typing room, special collections room, audio-visual room and offices.

The library has open stacks and subscribes to 600 periodicals and 27 newspapers. Architects for the building were Malone and Williams of Salisbury, and the Cambridge firm of Charles Brohawn.

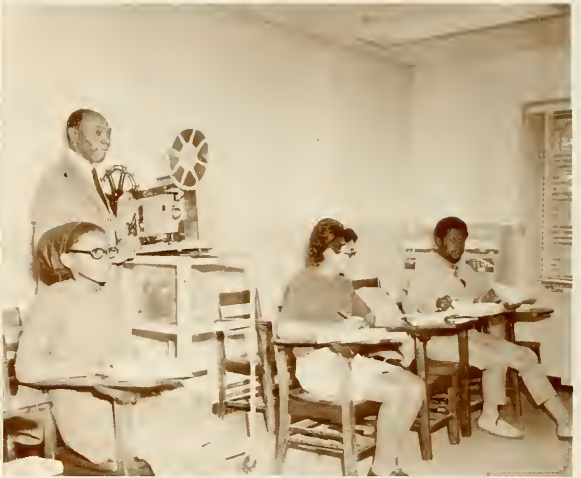

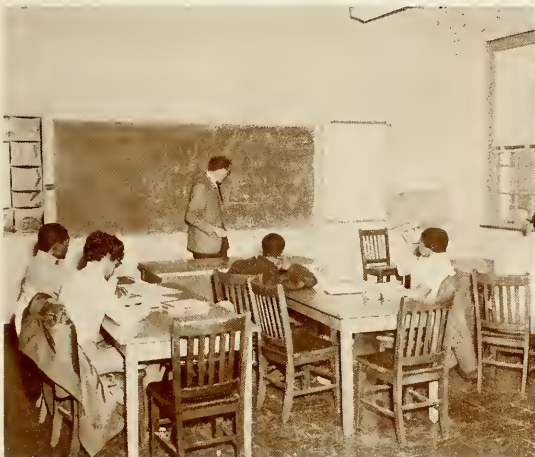

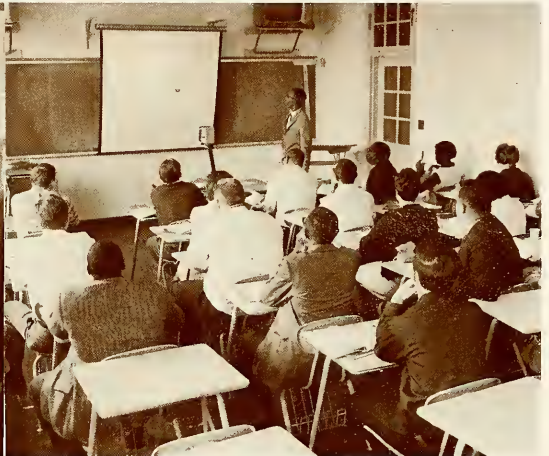

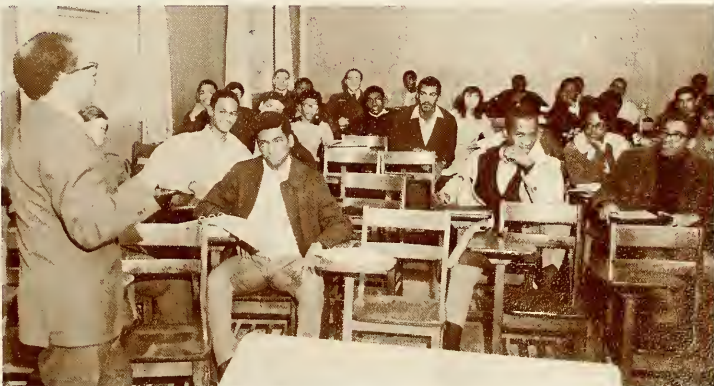

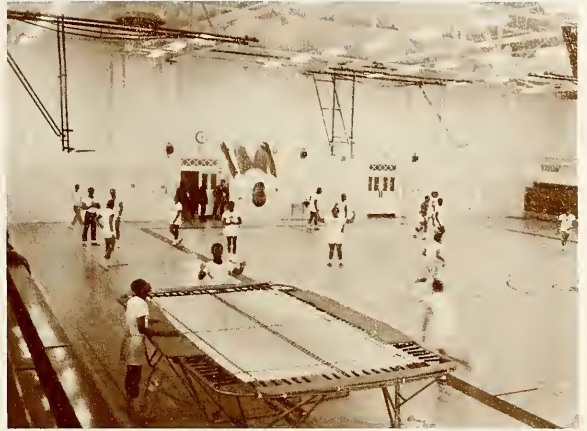

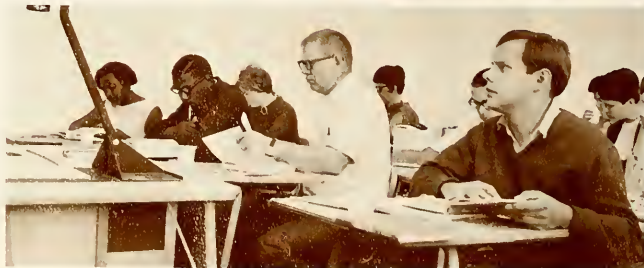

LOOKING AROUND OUR SPACIOUS CAMPUS

Our president meets with a group of distinguished businessmen representing such firms as Bell Telephone, Pepsi Cola Company, Southern New England Telephone Company, Western Union Telephone Company, Campbell Soup Company, General Electric Company and Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

President Williams escorts members of the Legislative Council, visiting our campus on an inspection tour.

Its our hope that this group would be influential in substantiating our need for campus expansion programs.

MISS BLACK AMERICA SAUNDRA WILLIAMS PRESENTS CLUBS AND ORGANIZATIONS

The first Miss Black America was crowned August, 1968, in Atlantic City, New Jersey. This achievement of black women everywhere was won by Miss Sandra Williams, our own at Maryland State College.

She is active in many activities on campus, and at home. She is a member of the NAACP, History Club, Wesley Foundation, and Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority.

ALPHA KAPPA MU

Alpha Kappa Mu was conceived as an organization of men and women of superior abilities who would be so organized that their mutual efforts might be coordinated and stimulated. It seeks to present the scholar as a "man thinking"—an individual with a program which uses a superior mind to do socially desirable work for the service of mankind. It hopes to discover potential scholars—gifted students—and to assist them to receive recognition, grants-in-aid, scholarships, fellowships and assistantships. It aims to bring together master and student to their mutual benefit and to the advancement of human knowledge and understanding. It would dignify scholarship through symbols, publicity and the interpretation of achievement to laymen. This is its task and service.

MSC CHOIR

The "Clefters" is the official name of the organization and has as its officers the following: President, Ambia Hooper; Vice-President, William Boddy; Secretary, Paulette Upshur; Treasurer, Wanda Stewart; Chaplain, George LeCompte. The choir is directed by Dr. Gerald W. Johnson and accompanied by Associate Professor, Alma L. Gregg.

The esteemed Maryland State College Choir is an aggregation of forty singers who are interested in singing a variety of choral literature primarily for the sake of pleasure. Geographically, the singers represent several states and pursue various courses of study.

The development of a greater appreciation of music is the primary educational objective of the singers. To provide genuine and pleasurable musical listening experience for the choir's audiences is of paramount importance. It attempts to do so by performing a broad variety of sacred and secular literature ranging from the sixteenth century to the present. Palestrina, J. S. Bach, G. F. Handel, Gounod, Brahms and Richard Rodgers and other known composers are represented in the choral literature performed by the group.

The collegiate group is a non-profit organization and maintains a full schedule of singing engagements sponsored by civic, church and industrial organizations. Live and taped television and radio programs are frequent.

M.S.C. MARCHING BAND

The instrumental program as we know it today had its origin three years ago with Warrick L. Carter as the director in 1966. This program began with nineteen performers and it has grown tremendously in size and strength. This program offers concert band, marching band, wind ensembles, and jazz lab band.

The Marching Band has presented colorful half-time shows and parades at significant events. The Marching Band also participated in a Christmas Parade in Princess Ann for the first time in its history. The Concert Band, Wind Ensembles, and Jazz Lab Band have given a variety of cultural experiences to our campus life.

Presently the Band is under the direction of Henry Sanders where more performing opportunities are being presented to this performing organization.

The Maryland State College Instrumental Music Program is one in which every musician regardless of the length and level of his experiences contributes to the program the necessary amount of preparation in order to have a perfect program.

The professional courses are intended for students who are preparing to be teachers of Physical Education and learners in recreation programs. In addition to this the department offers an intensive program in intramural activities for all students and a program of intercollegiate athletics for the varsity athlete.

Objectives:

1. To develop the individual through physical activities.
2. To develop constructive attitudes toward physical activity and particularly toward play.

PHI BETA SIGMA FRATERNITY

Phi Beta Sigma's first conclave was held in Washington, D.C. on December 27-30 in the year of 1916 and the fraternity was incorporated on January 31, 1920. The founders, A. Langston Taylor, Leonard F. Morse, and C. T. Brown, felt the need of a Greek-letter college fraternity embracing the principles of brotherhood, scholarship, and service which are crystallized and expressed in the fraternity's motto, "Culture for service and service for humanity." Alpha Mu Chapter, at Maryland State College was founded in 1950.

COLONY OF GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA SORORITY

Gamma Sigma Sigma Service Sorority came about when a group of girls of Drexel Institute of Technology heard that a group of girls known as the Omega Service Sorority of Boston University were hoping to find other college service groups in order to bind the groups together in a national service organization. The name Gamma Sigma Sigma appealed to the girls and was the name adopted for the Sorority because of the common usage of GS standing for girls service sorority.

Gamma Sigma Sigma Service Sorority had its beginning on January 1, 1953. The purpose of this organization is to assemble college and university women in the spirit of service to humanity. Gamma Sigma Sigma renders service to the school, the community and the nation.

Nationally, Alpha Phi Omega has a membership of over 100,000 men, and who have assembled in the fellowship of the scout oath and law to promote its cardinal principles: Leadership, Friendship and Service. Hawks Humiliate and Obliterate Opposition

The 1968 Hawks compiled an overall won-lost record of 5 wins 2 losses and 1 tie. All conference foes of the Hawks were greatly astonished by the Hawks awesome power and depth. Head Coach Sandy Gilliam could at any time call on any of his players and have them perform an omnipotent attack.

A tremendous coaching staff inclusive of Head Coach Sandy Gilliams, Backfield Coach Willie Smith, Line Coach Clifton, "Cappy" Anderson, and Line Coach Bill Davis, could and did render devastating blows to all opposition.

The Hawks' coaching staff insist that they will be stronger yet and there are no CIAA opponents who would care to argue the point.

Notable individual achievements for the "68" campaign were: 1. The dominating of the All-Conference team by placing 5th. 2. National punting championship by Warner Robertson, and, 3. Pass Interception Title by William Thompson, who was drafted by the Denver Broncos.

The 1969 football season promises to be just as invigorating and stimulating as the 1968 season. The Hawks foresee a perfect, unblemished season and are now in the process of working toward achieving that goal.

Hawks Flew High in 68-69 Campaign

The 1968-69 Basketball Season was an extremely successful one for the Maryland State Hawks. The mighty Hawks placed third in the CIAA Tournament and went on from there to place second in the Natl. College Division Tournament held in Kansas City, Mo.

From the season's onset, the Hawks were out to prove that they would not be denied a successful season. Early season victories assured the Hawks of a first Division finish in the tough CIAA Conference.

Head Coach Joe Robinson relied on the exceptional skill and determination of his basketball squad to carry him to the heights and goals obtained in 68-69.

The Hawks closed the season having compiled a very respectable overall record of 22 wins and 7 losses. The coach and squad vow never to relinquish a relentless attack on all their future competitors.

The 1969 Hawk Baseball team has high hopes and aspirations of retaining the CIAA baseball crown which they have held for 3 years. Head Baseball Coach "Sandy" Gilliams is confident that his squad can and will dominate CIAA opposition on the Baseball diamond again this season.

The baseball team is laden with stanch performers who admire nothing better than a championship baseball team and they, the Hawks, plan to be that team.

Benedict Cayenne struts around the oval with the poise and ease that has enabled him to be recognized as the most feared performer in the CIAA.

Hawks Seek An Unprecedented Fourth Straight

Hawks on the MSC squad are staunch performers who excel in top competition. Head Track mentor "Cappy" Anderson expects the bulk of his strength to be in field events and rightly so. In the field events there are four on the squad who have excelled 50 ft. in the shot-put, namely, Art Lasiter, Robert Baylor, Gerald Ford, and Charles Richardson. In the discus throw Charles Richardson, Robert Baylor, and Joe Hairston rank among the best. In the javelin Robert Martin and Warren Edwards are a cinch to sweep the arena. As usual the depth on the oval is unexcelled anywhere. Harold Reid and Larry Cheathan have always been known for gracefulness and gazelle-like speed.

Any team with thoughts or aspirations of being called CIAA track champions must first reckon with the mighty Hawks of Maryland. The thought of battling with Maryland State is enough in itself to send most opposition crying to their mothers and proclaiming that there just ain't no way to beat the mighty, magnificent Hawks of Maryland State.

SENIOR CLASS QUEEN
BARBARA BRIDGEFORTE

MAN'S WILL TO CHALLENGE A WORLD OF STRIFE IS THE HOPE OF THE FUTURE

Prior to the month of June, 1965, many prospective graduating seniors had definitely concluded that we would live more meaningful lives by traveling the road that had been less trodden. The less trodden road to us was the attainment of higher education. To us, a baccalaureate degree was an essential tool in our endeavors. This tool was not only an assurance of an occupation but also a representation of our personal values. By traveling this road we hoped to be one of the forceful agents in promoting Man's humanity to Man.

As the flight of time was inevitable, we prepared for the future by applying to institutions of higher learning in order that we might achieve our goals. In addition, we sought financial assistance in preference to an Uncle Tom attitude of being a victim of "a hand out". When we graduated from high school, we were fully aware of having to cross a portal in life which would be unique within itself. As we passed through this portal of puerile behavior and immature thinking, we immediately stripped ourselves of meaningless pursuits. We voluntarily sought to enrich ourselves with intellectual essentials, cultural sophistication, social consciousness, and political commitment.

The summer of 1965 was totally indicative of our long-term efforts. We labored and toiled. We sacrificed needless paraphernalia and the temporary benefits of extravagance and prodigality. That summer and the ones to follow were responsible for our coming to a fuller realization of the value of the American dollar, despite its declining monetary worth. So often did we say to ourselves that what is bitter and difficult to sow is ever so sweet and pleasant to reap.

As fall pushed its way into the year, approximately 250 vivacious and serious-minded youths who represented a cross sectional attendance at various secondary schools from across the country enrolled as The Freshman Class of 1965. From that point we held as our motto, "Only The Strong Shall Survive and the weak shall fall by the wayside." We knew that it would be an uphill battle. Nevertheless, we were determined to maintain an unquenchable thirst for knowledge.

In our sophomore year, we continued to better ourselves in mind and body as well as in spirit. The co-ordination of mind and body has led many to behold reveries as realities and impossibilities as actualities. Though some of us encountered more difficulty than others, we were determined to make our better the best, for we had confidence in ourselves.

The academic year, 1967-1968, marked great heights for our junior year at Maryland State College. National fame came to our class via Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, membership in Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society, art exhibitions, intercollegiate sports, and the like. It was here that we broke the chain of campus recognition. We were determined to make ourselves known. "To be or not to be?" was a question for Hamlet but not for us.

As prospective candidates for graduation, we are more than proud of ourselves. We are earnest. We are the end products of hitching our wagons to the stars. Psychologically speaking, inspiration was unconditioned stimulus; aspiration was our positive reinforcement; perspiration was our unconditioned response.

We thank Almighty God Who has graciously endowed us with myriad abilities and talents. We knew that as long as God was willing and we were able, we would succeed. "With God All Things Are Possible." We pay great tribute to our parents, relatives, teachers, friends, associates, and others who have assisted us in our challenging days of an ever-upward journey.

AS THE STORY GOES . . .

We strongly believe in the will of the individual. Nothing but nothing would have been accomplished if we declared, "It might be done." Such a declaration would have been too weak and unrealistic to give expression to the fiery zeal, ardor, and enthusiasm held so dear.

Man's will to challenge a world of strife is the hope of the future. If the present world status (with its civil war, national conflicts, racial apathy) is to eradicate itself, it must be in the will of the mind and not considered as a matter of choice. There is no room in this world for limpness in any sense or form. All of us are involved whether directly or indirectly. All of us have numbered our days. Can we let Him ask us at the Final Judgment, "What part did you play?"

We realize that we cannot underestimate the colossal impact of the total development of one's self. The potency of one person's life at its peak can be his saving contribution.

Man has within himself innate powers which no other creature possesses. Man has an intellect. With mind over matter, Man can move mountains. Man has ever substantiated the truth of this statement.

In "An Essay on Criticism", Alexander Pope observes:

*A little learning is a dangerous thing;
Drink deep or taste not the Pierian spring:
There shall drafts intoxicate the brain,
And drinking largely sobers us again.*

If man is to call himself educated, then we must delve deep and diversely. It is senseless to educate part of a man. It is sensible to educate the whole man.

As we probe and peruse history and science books, we readily comprehend that each person who invented a machine or derived a formula as a result of painstaking and tedious efforts was playing his role and not acting as a mere part of a disunited society. As for those who think they act as a mere part of a disunited society, we must conclude that they are victims of visionary and mental blindness.

We realize that Man's failure to realize brotherhood has resulted in unending strife. At present, Man has constructed several nuclear and atomic weapons for strategic purposes, whether for a cold war or a hot war. There is a continuity of fraternal repulsion among mankind. The world would be a much better place in which to live if the harmonious bond of brotherhood did exist. When Man realizes that it is better to accept an individual for what he is and for what he can share with him, rather than try to change him, then and then only will Man realize that the worth of an individual rests in his identity held in common with other members of the species.

We, the members of the Senior Class of 1969 of Maryland State College do hereby salute you. We part with sorrow, but we carry with us the joy of accomplishment. Because most of us are in the teaching profession, we think of ourselves as potential contributors to the world. We ponder on the influence of our contributions.
